To Honorable Council Member –

I have lived in the City of Chula Vista since 2002. When we bought here, I remember seeing all the signs that Chula Vista was the finest city. I keep asking myself, “What is the City of Chula Vista thinking in even considering making Chula Vista a sanctuary/welcoming city???” Chula Vista would not be our home today had we known then that Chula Vista government was going to “go against the grain” like this. I question what this will do to our home investment here in Chula Vista. The City will become extremely provocative to gang members, drug cartels and all types of criminals.

As we know, the legal, hard-working, established City of Chula Vista residents comprise a very mixed group of races and ethnicity so this is not about color of skin or immigrants – we are all immigrants in some way! Rather, the City of Chula Vista government should do their job which would protect and keep safe all the hard-working citizens who ultimately pay all the taxes!

What’s the issue of “fear” that I keep hearing? If they don’t break the law, why would the residents have the fear? To make City of Chula Vista a sanctuary/welcoming city would be a huge injustice to all the legal residents of not only Chula Vista but also to the whole State of California and the entire United States because of our “border” location which makes us the perfect home/hideout for criminals, drugs, gangs, homeless and all others who are too lazy to abide the laws. We should not be harboring these people. Please keep it simple and protect the most contributing and law abiding citizens.

Thank you!

Respectfully,

Donna DeVaul
