BOARD/COMMISSION RECOMMENDATION

That the City Council adopt the Ordinance.

DISCUSSION

In 1990, the City Council seated the Cultural Arts Commission (Commission) to serve as a resource to advise and make recommendations on cultural arts citywide. The role of the Commission was to identify cultural arts needs and issues affecting the citizens of the City. A Commission that is comprised of citizens with specific experience and education in the arts and personal understanding of the issues and needs of the creative industry, or "Qualified Commission," would further this purpose. A qualified Commission would provide further credibility to Chula Vista's developing creative industry and would strengthen Chula Vista's role in the arts locally, regionally, nationally and internationally. Establishing qualification criteria for Commission appointments is an important first step in the implementation of the Cultural Arts Master Plan and further validates Chula Vista's commitment to strengthen Chula Vista's creative economy and Chula Vista as a cultural arts destination.

Proposed Amendments

There is great economic value in building upon and expanding cultural arts in Chula Vista. Chula Vista currently has a nine (9) member Commission with the purview to advise and make recommendations to the City Council and the City Manager on cultural arts issues affecting the citizens of the City. Each of the existing Commissioner's are dedicated individuals that have a passion for the arts, several of which are artists themselves. The proposed amendments would help to ensure that as the strategies and initiatives of the Master Plan are implemented and, as Commission vacancies arise, that new appointees would have the qualifications necessary for Chula Vista to remain responsive to the dynamic nature of the creative industry.

For this reason, and to ensure that the various disciplines of cultural arts are represented on the Commission, it is proposed that a minimum of six (6) members be appointed from among professionals in the disciplines of arts and culture, including but not limited to the performing arts, fine arts, culinary arts, media arts or related art. Table 1 summarizes the proposed municipal code amendments that would be required to implement the composition and appointment process, and to delete out of date references and information.
